THIS WEEK IN BASKETBALL – JANUARY 21-27, 2023

ATTENTION PLAYBOOK BASKETBALL NEWSLETTER SUBSCRIBERS

Due to various circumstances beyond our control – such as a reliable basketball schedule that covers more than just three days' worth of games – we'll be presenting a "meat and potatoes" version of our weekly basketball newsletter until the start of the NCAA Tournament. Each week we'll provide write-ups and analysis on the games that stand out the most, including three Best Bet releases on each of the College, NBA, and NBA Over/Under cards. For margins on all other games on the weekly card, we suggest you refer to Kenny White's Power Ratings, along with Victor King's NBA rankings, in determining sides on the remaining portion of the daily hoops' lineup. We are sorry for any inconvenience, but rest assured the isolated contests we feature contain write-ups on the games that would normally appear in the regular version of the PLAYBOOK Basketball Newsletter. Thanks for your continued support.

KANSAS over TCU by 3

Make this game our Ballys Call of the Week. That's because we're asking you to fade the mighty Jayhawks in Lawrence off a loss on Tuesday at Kansas State. And what an excruciating loss it was, falling by 1 point in overtime when the Wildcats hit the game winner with just 7 seconds remaining. Also doomed to suffer mid-week disappointment was TCU. The Horned Frogs looked like world-beaters when they dominated No. 11 K-State the previous Saturday at Forth Worth, 82-68, only to suffer a major letdown in the following game versus West Virginia, resulting in a 74-65 defeat for the Froggies. Kansas had lost just once this season before its defeat at Manhattan, and the angry Jayhawks mutilated Texas Southern by 32 points in their next contest. Unlike TSU, though, TCU will be looking to get even for a semifinal loss to KU in last year's Big 12 Tournament, and it turns out .777 or greater B12 teams seeking LTKO (league tournament knockout) revenge are 4-2 ATS. Plus, head coach Jamie Dixon owns a 3-1-1 ATS away mark when sub .880 and seeking LTKO. Yes, 16-2 Kansas has piled up the wins this season, but Bill Self's boys haven't been hammering foes of late, winning four of their five games prior to the KSU loss by a total of just 11 points. Considering Kansas has covered only once in its previous five post-Wildcat outings, we say back the hungrier 5-returning starter Frog Dogs coming off a loss with a revenge chip on their shoulder.

5★ BEST BET

Ucla over ARIZONA by 10

Don't expect this one to show up on Saturday night like a normal Pac-12 basketball game. Nope, this heavyweight clash promises so much mayhem that the TV folks dropped it into a 2:00 PM ET starting spot so East Coast viewers can hopefully remain awake while getting a look at two of the best teams in the country. Yet another of our favorite foils – backing a winning team playing with LTKO revenge from last season is in play here, though UCLA isn't just any winning team. They're still unbeaten in conference play with an 8-0 record and ranked No. 5 overall in the nation in Points Differential. At 17-2 SU and 13-6 ATS, the Bruins have ruined many a team's hopes this season, much like when the Wildcats sent them packing after an 84-76 loss in the Pac-12 title game last season. The good news for head coach Mick Cronin and his Blue-and-Gold bunch is their 6-1 SU and 5-1-1 ATS the last seven when playing with LTKO. That situation morphs into the perfect storm after the WOM (well-oiled machine) informs us that Arizona is a mind-boggling and wallet emptying 0-9 SU and 1-8 ATS at home in this series when UCLA is seeking revenge. And even though the Bruins lost the Pac-12 title to Arizona last year, they still had enough juice left to reach the Sweet 16. We might as well get juiced with THE CLINCHER: See the week's AWESOME ANGLE on page 2. Note this angle improves to 13-0 ATS when the avenging team sports a .400 or greater win percentage.

Byu over SAN FRANCISCO by 10

We close out Saturday's calls with another angry team looking for redemption from a conference tournament loss last season when San Francisco toppled BYU, 75-63, as an underdog in the semifinals of the West Coast Conference. It's hard to think of BYU basketball without a mental image of Danny Ainge going coast-to-coast against Notre Dame in the final seconds of their 1981 Sweet 16 matchup, dropping a layup through the net with two seconds remaining to give the Cougars a stunning 51-50 victory, and the program's first and only trip to the Elite Eight. Since then not a lot has happened. In the previous ten seasons, BYU has lost a total of 103 games, not exactly championship play, and the Cougs travel to the Bay Area tonight already with eight defeats for the season. Fortunately for Mark Pope and his Mormons, they get to take on a team that's struggling even worse than they are: the Dons have won just two of their last seven games. BYU got thumped by Santa Clara in its last outing, but the Cougars are riding a 4-1 SUATS wave in this series when coming off a loss – plus they own a 3-1 SUATS log when playing with LTKO revenge. As for the Dons, they have a revenge of their own against San Diego on tap, and they're a miserable 1-6 SUATS before facing the Toreros. Too many negatives to consider the home team.

Sunday, January 22

INDIANA over Michigan State by 8

Indiana was looking like a possible dark horse after starting 7-0 in December, but the Hoosiers have come up lame since, going 5-6 SU. In fact, they were lost in a 0-3 losing skid before coming alive in their last two contests. First up was an impressive 18-point home win over Wisconsin, which was followed by an even more one-sided performance at Illinois. Scorching the nets for 62% shooting from the floor, IU also outrebounded the Illini by 39-27 and in doing so, clearly flashed the Buy Sign. Thus, the 12-6 Hoosiers return home with triple revenge on their minds just one game back of the Spartans in the loss column in the Big Ten standings, and they own a superior 18-8 SUATS record at Bloomington in this series. Michigan State is 4-2 in January, and the Spartans take to the road here off a LTKO revenge win of their own over Rutgers on Thursday. It's not one of their best point spread roles, either, as MSU is 4-7 ATS when coming off LTKO revenge victories, including 0-3 ATS the last three. With the series visitor now on a 2-8 ATS slide, and Indiana ranked No. 3 overall nationally in Field Goal Percentage, we'll buy in on the Hoosiers here.

Duke over VIRGINIA TECH by 13

So how is the whole Coach K retirement thing going for Duke? In 42 seasons with the Blue Devils, Mike Krzyzewski – a Naismith Hall of Fame coach, five-time national champion and NCAA record 13-time Final Four participant – built a dynasty that few programs in the history of the game can match. But that was then, and this is now. Enter Jon Scheyer, former Duke All-American, who served on Krzyzewski's staff since the 2013-14 season, and was on the bench when last year's Blue Devils finished 32-7 after losing to UNC in the Final Four. Inheriting only one starter, Scheyer has his squad off to a 13-5 start, but his 4-3 record in ACC play has Duke stuck in the middle of the pack in the conference race. Virginia Tech opened league play with a win over North Carolina on December 4 but the Hokies have taken the bullet since, losing six straight to ACC foes. Then there's the fact that they must answer to toppling the No. 1 seed Blue Devils in last year's conference tourney, rudely ruining Coach K's regular season farewell with a 15-point thrashing of Duke. The last time such a thing happened, and Virginia Tech was involved, the Blue Devils went into Blacksburg in the rematch and hammered the Hokies, 77-63. Duke is 3-0 ATS with revenge during the regular season in this series, and while Tech is normally a good home dog, the Gobblers are just 5-11-1 ATS against avenging foes, including 2-6 SUATS versus .700 or greater opponents. With that, we hand it off to THE CLINCHER: See this week's INCREDIBLE STAT on page 2.

VANDERBILT over Kentucky by 8

If there are any Kentucky fans out there with pacemakers, you might want to get them recharged following a wild last week. After being embarrassed at Rupp Arena by South Carolina on January 10, a defeat that snapped UK's SEC-leading home winning streak, the Wildcats were off to Knoxville in what looked to be a mismatch in favor of the Vols. Not so fast, my friends. Head coach John Calipari directed his team to a monster 63-56 upset of Tennessee – which ruined the Volunteers' own home court winning streak – and quieted those who had been screaming for Coach Cal's head. Until the next game, that is. Playing at home as 11-point chalk against Georgia, the Cats fell behind at the half, 42-34, prompting one UK fan to tweet: "I hope Calipari has got another job lined up." Oh ye of little faith... a 51-29 second half saw Kentucky blow Georgia's doors off in an 85-71 win. The Wildcats will be coming off a Saturday home game versus Texas A&M before venturing to Music City, but they had better not expect a welcome from the Commodores. Look, if the Vanderbilt staff could recruit as successfully as the record labels draw talent to Nashville, they'd be known for something more than a 69-106 record in the previous six seasons. Safe to say, head coach (and former star at North Carolina) Jerry Stackhouse will try to get his team to forget about their 9-9 record and concentrate on getting even with the Wildcats for three consecutive defeats, including a 77-71 first round bounce in the SEC tourney last season. Some good news for coach Stackhouse comes in the form of the Commodores' outstanding 17-6-2 ATS record with revenge in this series, including 8-0-1 ATS when Kentucky owns a sub .777 win percentage. The WOM also lets us know that foes who won 19-plus games last season are 9-6 ATS when facing Kentucky and seeking LTKO revenge, including 6-1 ATS when the Blue Cats are coming off back-to-back wins (check result vs. Aggies). Until Calipari's current team stops running so hot-and-cold, we'll consider riding the Kentucky fade train.

AUBURN over Texas A&M by 14

After suffering an ugly 12-point road loss to Georgia on January 4, Auburn head coach Bruce Pearl read his team the riot act. We're not sure which version he used but it seems to have worked, as the Tigers have smashed four consecutive SEC opponents to reach the 15-3 mark, and their 5-1 league record has them hot on the heels of conference leaders Alabama (6-0) and Texas A&M (5-0). Not to be outdone, the Aggies are currently on a red-hot 7-game winning streak of their own. However, they do enter off a revenge affair with Kentucky on Saturday knowing they are just 3-9 ATS in SEC skirmishes post Wildcats. They also ambushed No. 1 seed Auburn in the first round of last year's conference tournament, which sets up the Tigers' 46-6 ATS success in outright home wins when playing with revenge in conference tilts. Hey, after Gonzaga fell at home last week, Auburn's 29-game home win streak is the longest in the nation, and we don't expect it to end here. As for cashing an ATS ticket, we defer to THE CLINCHER: Auburn is 8-1 ATS with SEC conference tourney revenge, including 6-0 ATS versus .600 or greater opponents.

Thursday, January 26

Arizona over WASHINGTON STATE by 8

We've had our fair share of revenge games in this week's selections, but no one wants to throttle their opponent more this week than Arizona wants to choke the life out of Washington State. That's because the Wildcats lost just their third game of the season two weeks ago to the Cougars, a head-scratching 74-61 defeat at Tucson as 12.5-point chalk. Folks, we seldom see quality teams like Arizona get embarrassed in such a manner, and 2nd-year head coach Tommy Lloyd will have his squad ready to extract their pound of flesh tonight. It's nothing new, as Arizona has dominated this series 18-2 SU and 16-4 ATS, including 9-1 ATS at Wazzu, plus the Wildcats are 16-11 SU and 17-10 ATS mark in same-season revengers from double-digit losses. The timing is right as Washington State's strong 6-2 ATS home ledger only serves to bring this price into 'playable range'. But the backbreaker is Wazzu's 3-30 ATS mark in SU home losses against avenging Pac-12 visitors, including 18 consecutive losses. Only one way to look here.

NBA BASKETBALL

Saturday, January 21

TORONTO over Boston by 3

Yes, we're going out on a limb here, but one anchored with plenty of bark. If the playoffs were to begin today the Raptors would be on the outside looking in, sitting 1.5 games behind the 10th and final seed, Chicago. For openers, the dinosaurs are 6-2 SU and 5-3 ATS at home in this series with same-season loss revenge, including 4-1 SUATS if the loss was by fewer than a dozen points. In addition, the fossils fuel up at 23-6 SU and 18-10-1 ATS as a host when coming off two losses exact. Meanwhile, the boys from Beantown enter off a revenge affair with Golden State from last year's finals knowing they are 10-24-1 ATS when laying points after Warrior workouts, including 4-15 SU and 2-16-1 ATS as chalk of less than 6 points. What's that lurking in the air? The smell of an upset would be our best guess.

Sunday, January 22

PORTLAND over LA Lakers by 10

If you think we'll be backing the Lakers anytime soon you must not be drinking enough. It's not that we're LeBron bashers. We're not. And it's not because they've regressed to the point that even Jack Nicholson refuses to attend their home games anymore. It's just that they're simply a two-trick pony carrying so much weight they've gone lame. They rank No. 27 in Defensive Scoring, No. 25 in Opponents Assists Per Game (lazy defense), No. 22 in Offensive Rebounds. You get the drift. They're also coming off a triple revenger against Memphis with a 0-4 ATS mark the last four games after facing the Grizzlies against avenging foes. On the opposite side of the court, the Blazers are 15-2 SU and 13-4 ATS as a host of late in this series when coming off an ATS loss of 7 or more points, including 7-0 ATS when Portland sports a sub .595 win percentage. If this all sounds like a scene out of The Shining, it should. And with it, it's time to shine the light on Portland. Here's Johnny!!!

Monday, January 23

Boston over ORLANDO by 16

If we were correct on our call against the Celtics on Saturday we'll be more than ready to spring into action and ride them here tonight. Either way, the rubber band will be snapped for a lot of good reasons. It starts with the fact that Boston has dropped both of its gatherings against Orlando this season – each as a double-digit favorite! They're also 9-3 ATS in this series when seeking same-season double revenge. With it, the Magic have enjoyed point spread success this season, which puts this game into a reasonable price range as the oddsmakers don't like admitting they've erred for most of the season on one team in particular. Meanwhile, Orlando is off a revenge affair of its own against Washington with another revenger on tap against Indiana standing 7-11 SUATS in games before Pacer performances. With that, we put the whipped cream on the desert with THE CLINCHER: Boston is 31-11 ATS away when playing with same-season double revenge exact, including 12-1 ATS the last twelve versus .550 or less opponents.

San Antonio over LA LAKERS by 6

Yes, it's Pop-o-Top time again and with it we'll be first in line to exact a measure of triple revenge with the future Hall of Fame head coach tonight. For openers Greg Popovich's crew is 19-3 SU and 16-6 ATS away in this series in games in which the Lakers own a sub .535 win percentage. On the flip side, the struggling Lakers enter off a major revenge against their crosstown rival Clippers (1-3 SUATS post-Clippers) with another revenger on tap against Boston. Noting opponents' glossy 18-7 ATS mark in games against the King's clan when seeking same-season triple-revenge, we'll add an extra shake layer of comfort with THE CLINCHER: Spurs head coach Greg Popovich is 8-0 ATS in his last eight games when seeking same-season triple revenge-exact.

Memphis over MINNESOTA by 14

Meet the hottest hand in the loop – the Grizzlies. Riding a 12-game win skein at press time, Memphis has the look and feel of a genuine threat to win the West as they rank No. 2 in Points Differential, No. 4 in Overall Rebounding, and No. 5 in Overall Scoring. Meanwhile, Minnesota checks in off a double revenge rumble with New Orleans with a 13-point revenger on tap with Sacramento. That puts the Grizz in an ideal revenge sandwich. Perhaps the most mind-boggling stat, though, is Minny's not-so mighty 9-188 ATS mark – yes, you read that right – at home in games it loses outright to an avenging foe. And finally, if history is your thing then you'll love THE CLINCHER: Memphis is 19-8 SUATS overall in this series, including 5-0 SUATS when seeking revenge from a same-season loss of 5 or more points.
